19th Ecumenical Council of the Church opened its 1st session in 1545 by action of Pope Paul III. This closed in 1547. Was reconvened in 1551 by Pope Julius III and adjourned in 1552. Third period opened in 1562 under Pope Pius IV, closed finally after 25 sessions in Dec. 1563. It drew up a platform of procedural reform, defined doctrine, authorized the VULGATE, enacted legislation on marriage (TAMETS¹), and formulated a revision of the BREVIARY.

Its work was so scholarly and extensive that for more than 300 years, no other council was held.
